

Erasmus University Rotterdam Making Minds Matter

The Young Researcher Workshop is designed to create a supportive space for young researchers to present their research and receive valuable feedback from experienced cultural economists. This workshop also offers an engaging platform to reflect on the latest developments in cultural economics and discuss its future directions together.

Join us on 24 June, 2025 for a day of insightful in-person discussions and collaboration The workshop will start with an inspiring introduction from a cultural economist (TBA) who will share their experience in both research and education highlighting how these areas have evolved hand in hand/alongside (with) the evolution of the cultural sector.

Then, during parallel sessions, the young researchers will have the opportunity to present their papers or research projects, benefiting from constructive feedback provided by distinguished cultural economists.

The day will conclude with a dynamic panel discussion involving the commentators and selected young researchers to explore common key insights and diverse perspectives collectively.

We warmly invite young researcher to submit an abstract of their research by 1 February, 2025.

Submissions need to indicate: name, affiliation and contact information of the presenter; name(s), affiliation and contact information of co-author(s); paper title, keyword and abstract (500 words). The abstract should include: the research question, the theoretical approach used, a description of the methods, models and data, expected results of the research.

All submissions will be refereed by the YRW Scientific Committee. Authors will be notified by 28 February 2025. Deadline for the final submission is 1 June 2025.

Abstract can only be uploaded using a link, which will be available end of November.

For any information you can contact Anna Mignosa: mignosa@eshcc.eur.nl

We look forward to your participation!