Become an all-round expert in international commercial and company law

Erasmus University Rotterdam
Make it happen.

“We look at the legal aspects, but consider social, psychological and economic factors as well.”

Prof. Dr. Frank Smeele, professor of Commercial Law

What does this programme have to offer you?

- The LL.M. programme Commercial and Company Law provides you with a unique combination of specialist courses in the field of company and commercial law, and with general courses in European and comparative private law;
- You get educated by our excellent teaching staff. Our staff members have a solid (international) academic background as well as a wealth of experience from commercial and legal practise;
- You study in one of the leading commercial centre and largest ports of Europe, which means you will often go “on-site” to see how things work in practice.

The LL.M. programme in Commercial and Company Law provides you with a thorough insight into the legal aspects of doing business in an international setting.

During the specialisation Commercial and Company Law attention is given to the influence of European Union Law. Because of the unique combination of two jurisdictions, both international corporate law and commercial law, the master Commercial and Company Law provides a comprehensive overview of the company law field.

Career perspective

Graduates will find employment in law firms or law courts, in the academic and business world or in various other sectors of the economy where issues related to business companies and commercial relations play an important part.

As a graduate you will have extensive knowledge in commercial and company Law, you will have the skills to do business in an international setting and you will be able to apply different perspectives.

Positions of our graduates:

- Lawyer or attorney in the legal practice;
- Business lawyer or legal adviser at (international) companies;
- Civil servant, for example at the European Commission;
- Academic teacher or researcher.

“As a PhD candidate at Erasmus School of Law I worked on a book project about the identity of the carrier. After graduating in 1998 I was asked to stay, but I wanted to gain experience in legal practice first. Thus I became an attorney – and later a partner - at Van Traa. But Erasmus University asked me to come back. After a period of combining academia and legal practice, I became a full professor in 2007.”

“We pay attention to actual trends”

Prof. Dr. Frank Smeele

“Company law has to do with the organisation of businesses. How are the relations between the employers, shareholders, financial institutions, et cetera, and how is the company being governed? We look at the legal aspects, but consider social, psychological and economic factors as well. We pay attention to actual trends, like the fact that companies are getting more international and have a shorter life cycle.”

“A lot of our former students have jobs as an attorney or an in-house council. But there is also the possibility of becoming a civil servant or a researcher. Many alumni have found employment in this area, students who came from abroad as well. So Rotterdam might be a great place to start your career!”
