

Erasmus Institute for Philosophy and Economics (EIPE)

Research Seminar Programme Spring 2004

2 February, Geert Reuten (University of Amsterdam)

"Productive force and the degree of intensity of labour:
Marx's concepts and formalizations in the Middle Part of Capital I"

Comments by Henk Plasmeijer (Groningen)

16 February, Stathis Psillos (University of Athens)

"Scientific Realism and the Base-Rate Fallacy"

Comments by Janneke van Lith (Utrecht)

23 February, Philip Mirowski (University of Notre Dame)

"On some recent responses to Machine Dreams"

Comments by Marcel Boumans (Amsterdam)

8 March, Elias Khalil (Vassar College)

"The two faces of beliefs"

Comments by Bart Nooteboom (Erasmus)

22 March, Rainer Hegselmann (University of Bayreuth)

"Opinion Dynamics - Insights by radically simplifying models"

Comments by Igor Douven (Erasmus)

5 April, Arjo Klamer (Erasmus)

"The economy of the common goods"

Comments by John Groenewegen (Erasmus)

19 April, Michel ter Hark (University of Groningen)

"Popper's evolutionary theory of objective knowledge: A historical perspective"

Comments by Henk Visser

3 May, Gido Berns (Tilburg University)

"The endlessness of economy and rationality"

Comments by Peter-Wim Zuidhof (Erasmus)

14 May, Tiziano Raffaelli (University of Pisa)

"Marshall on character: A revaluation"

Comments by Gulbahar Tezel (Erasmus)

7 June, Robert C. Solomon (University of Texas at Austin)

"Adam Smith and the sentiment of sympathy"

Comments by Mark Blaug (Erasmus)