Transition Regulation 2007

General

IBEB students who would like to finish their bachelor-1 or bachelor-3 programme can make use of the Transition Regulation below.

N.B. It's not possible anymore to take examinations as stated in the 'old' programme. Students who still have to complete 'old' courses, have to follow the corresponding 'new' courses within the Jaarplansysteem and therefore also have to attend the obligatory practicals.

IBEB-3

The Transition Regulation requires that a combination of a seminar and the Bachelor's thesis adds up to 20 cr (the combination of an 'old' seminar of 10 cr and a 'new' Bachelor's thesis of 8 cr is not allowed).

Because of the formal rule of 180 cr for completing your Bachelor's degree programme, it may be necessary to complete your Bachelor's thesis with the 'old' student workload of 10 credits.

If the total amount of credits for the bachelor-3 programme adds up to 58 of 59 credits (e.g. if some courses with the new student workload of 4 credits were followed), students can send a written request to the Examination Board for dispensation for the one or two credits that are missing. If, at the end of bachelor-3, students miss more than 2 credits, they will have to choose an extra elective.

Course codes

As a result of the introduction of the Jaarplansysteem the old course codes (capital letters FEW + four figures) were per 1 September 2007 replaced by new course codes (capital letters FEB or FEM + a new combination of figure/letter).

Old courses that were last offered in the academic year 2007/2008 keep the old FEW code.
