1. Introduction

This is the annual report 2017 of the Erasmus Education Fund. This fund has been founded in 2010. We are proud to say that the Erasmus Education Fund has grown during the last years. In 2018 we were able to support 11 students studying at Erasmus University Rotterdam; four master students, and seven bachelor students.

We hope to inspire you to become involved in the coming years to help us to fulfill our mission.

2. Mission

The Erasmus Education Fund was founded by the Erasmus School of Economics in 2010. Its objective is to support 'initiatives that enable talented youths from impoverished backgrounds to develop into the leaders of the next generation with the aid of further education'. Think of youths who (could) achieve exceptional study results, or youths who are, or want to be, very socially involved or distinguish themselves in another way, but who are restricted in this by for example poverty. These are youngsters, with high potential, who are unable to utilize this without help. These talented, highly motivated youngsters, who possess an enormous resilience and perseverance, simply have to get an honest chance.

3. Strategy

By making financial contributions to good causes designated by the board, by awarding prizes to solid initiatives and by providing scholarships to the youngsters themselves, the Erasmus Education Fund can contribute to realize that each year a number of youngsters are able to develop their talents further.

The EEF thus supports organizations that contribute to the development of talented individuals who are among the most capable in their environment of pursuing further education. EEF also helps by directly providing scholarships from the Fund to individual talents who will study at Erasmus University Rotterdam or one of its partner universities.

6. Financials

The Erasmus Education Fund does not receive any subsidies. The Erasmus Education Fund raises money, for example, by organizing sponsor events, seminars and master classes. Other donations, like specific legacies or original actions of enthusiastic individuals, shall also not be forgotten. In 2018 a significant amount was donated by various alumni of Erasmus School of Economics and other diverse entities.

7. Projects 20189

Most important is, of course, that the money raised by the Fund is spent well, and there were it is needed most. The Erasmus Education Fund critically evaluates in which ways and in cooperation with which organizations it can best realize its objectives. With the start of the academic year 2017-2018, the Erasmus Education Fund granted scholarships to eleven students from the Erasmus University:

- Four master students (Erasmus School of Economics, ESHCC and ISS);
- Seven bachelor students (Erasmus School of Economics).

Each scholarship amounts to €3.000,- per year for non-EU and a full tuition fee for EU students and only students with excellent study results, who really need the support, are eligible for a scholarship.

In 2019 additional and new projects to fulfill our mission will be selected.
